PRAGATI
EDUCATIONAL COUNCIL

The council a registered body dedicated to the promotion of education, language and literature. The council has been bringing out a bi-annual literary journal (Pragati's English Journal (ISSN-0975-4091 published in June and December) for the last ten years. Apart from bringing out more than twenty issues of the journal it has published a number of quality books on English literature and literary criticism and organised six National Seminars on different issues concerning English literature .

Having about 200 scholars and writers as the members of its literary society, the council is actively engaged in providing useful platform for creative interaction. The present seminar, like the other activities of the council, is aimed to provide opportunity to students, scholars and creative writers to share their knowledge and understanding about different issues concerning literature.

The seminar is an endeavour to study the vast variety of themes emerging out of new reality orientations and theoretical paradigms impacting their understanding.

The study undertaken in the papers presented in the seminar is hoped to show how the new lifestyles have engaged the attention of creative writers .
